EDITOR

Another exposition is now history. Expo 08 was a success. There were 53 exhibitors and some 892 visitors. The Club decided to present another exposition in 2009 and has requested permission from Compton Municipal Council to have access to the Récré-o-parc for the third weekend in August.

The Club has lost another member – the thirteenth. He was Herb Harrington. He wasn't seen too often but was a member in the past. The Club sends its' sympathy to the family.

The Christmas Party is planned for Sunday, December 7th at the Coaticook Golf Club. The cost will be $12.50 per person. The Club will pay the tip. The members decided to have only door prizes this year and not to have the gift exchange. So, the members are invited to bring a small gift for the door prizes.

We are always looking for someone to make a presentation at the meetings to make them more interesting. So, if you have something to present, contact the President. Everyone has a project or an experience that would interest members.

Members are invited to contribute to the newsletter. Contact:

EXPO 2008

Decision

At the September 2007, the Club decided to present another exposition in 2008. To do so, the Club requested permission from the Compton Municipal Council to have access to the Récré-o-parc. The Council accorded permission at its' October meeting.

Planning began at the regular October meeting. The members were informed of the developments and their opinions solicited.

The Committee

The Expo Committee was formed in April and included the following members: Yvon Cloutier, Dominique Perron, Gary Dunsmore, Dave Lord, Kathy Chapdelaine, Luc Grenier, and Gordon Barnett. The Compton Antique Car Club was invited to participate as well and was represented by Sylvain Veilleux.

There were two meetings to plan Expo 2008, the first on Monday, May 12th and the second on Thursday, July 10th. These took place at the Restaurant Maison du Verger in Compton. The Committee discussed some 40 items and made decisions concerning the organization of Expo. Some of the items were: color of the medallions and dash plates, the theme, tables and chairs, signs, the BBQ, publicity, the auction, flea market, and several other subjects. The meetings included a member of the Compton Car Club (Sylvain Veilleux). The two clubs worked in close cooperation.

The President discussed the details for the BBQ on May 5th with Bob Sarrasin. The medallions were ordered on May 14th from Great World Advertising of Rockford Illinois and the dash plates from Serigraphe in Sherbrooke. Gaston Brousseau was invited in January to furnish his canteen services at Expo.

The publicity

There were several facets to the publicity. Gordon Barnett prepared a publicity folder and had 1600 copies printed, which were distributed by members in many places. Also, Gordon prepared a poster, which also was distributed and posted. Jean-Paul Gendron prepared and distributed a press release to about twenty organizations.

Advertisements were placed in La Source (Waterville), l'Echo de Compton, and Le Progrès (Coaticook). Ads were also placed in The Stanstead Journal and the Record. An announcement was sent to the CBC.

Danielle Robinet from the Car Club prepared a striking joint poster which was distributed in the region, appeared in the Tribune (Sherbrooke), and was distributed by email.

The Car Club had a new joint sign made and this was placed in front of the Restaurant Maison du Verger in Compton to advertise the show. Other signs were erected on roads leading to Compton, which indicated where the show was and at the same time served as advertisement.

FRIDAY AUGUST 15

Friday was sunny and fairly hot.

Gordon Barnett arrived at the Parc at 830h on his Massey Ferguson 97. Dave Lord had already installed his house trailer, Jacques Veilleux was installing his trailer and model tractor display, and Dominique Perron was unloading his equipment for his water display. Nil and Rachel Veilleux arrived at about 845h with a Cockshutt tractor and Luc Grenier came at 930h with his boiler and steam engine. Gordon and Dominique went to the Municipal Garage at 930h to get the municipal tent and the barriers. Hervey Lagrandeur and Carmen Turgeon came at about 945h and Wells Coates about 1000h. Before installing much else, the exhibitors had to wait for a municipal employee to complete mowing the grass. Once the grass was cut, Gordon Barnett set up the guidelines to delineate the roadways and exhibitor sites to guide the exhibitors in placing their displays.

Émile Couture arrived in the morning with a Farmall H and a McCormick W6. Also, Raymond Chagnon and Martin Dion brought four tractors: a 706 Hi-Clear, 1026 red and gold demonstrator, and two yellow industrials - a 2806 and a 2856. Bruce and Ginette Rumsby arrived at 1530h with their International Eagle tractor and float on which was bolted an enormous 50 HP Bessemer engine and a 5 HP Associated. Bruce backed his float through the gateway to the baseball field through some tight spots without hitting anything.

At 1020h LTCA delivered the two toilets. At about 1100h, Bertin and Ginette Leblanc, Roger Legault, Claude Boucher, and Mike and Elsie Harbinson arrived. Jack McAuley brought an impeccable Cockshutt 35 around 1115 and brought two others, an Eagle and a 40 later. Donald Dion brought the National engine at 1330h with Michel's Case 8910. Kevin Campbell from Kinnears Mills arrived at the same time with an impeccable Massey Harris Pony. Dave Sarrasin, Kaylon, Zachary, and Sylvia Young set up their flea market display around 1400h.

The group erected the municipal tent next to the entrance at 1430h and the Club tent next to the gate shortly after. Yvon Cloutier had picked the Club tent up at his barn near Burroughs Falls and brought it to the site in the early afternoon. He and several members went to the Waterville church to get the 14 tables and 112 chairs. Luc and Gordon went to Nil Veilleux's to get the barrels with the tablet presenters on which the descriptive sheets are tacked. Gordon installed them at the corners of the roadways to support the white bands.

Several people participated in putting the infrastructure in place: Dominique Perron, Yvon Cloutier, Luc Grenier, Delmar Fisher, Nicolas Veilleux, Émile Couture, Dave Lord, Kevin Campbell, Jacques Veilleux, Jean-Paul Gendron, Bruno Veilleux, Réjean Chapdelaine, Wells Coates and others.

Other exhibitors arrived during the afternoon and evening such as Jacques and Sylvie Sills and their impeccable grey and gold Ferguson 35 for a total of 27. Jean-Paul Gendron came at about 1510h and started the registration of the exhibitors and gave them a dash plate, medallion, and a folder with safety information prepared by Dave Lord.

Around 1830h, Dave Lord and Kathy Chapdelaine cooked hot-dogs and corn for the exhibitors. Thirty-three persons attended.

SATURDAY AUGUST 16

During Saturday, it was sunny in the morning and partially overcast in the afternoon.

Another twenty or so exhibitors arrived on Saturday for a total of 43. For example, Roger Roy and the Hébert family arrived early as did the flea marketers. Michel and Martin Dion and their friends arrived in an impressive parade of 14 IH tractors.

During the day, Gaston Brousseau and his helper provided canteen services to the public. He served hamburgers, hot-dogs, poutine, pop, and coffee.

Visitors began arriving shortly after 900h. In the morning, Kevin Campbell and Gordon Barnett welcomed the visitors and collected the admission fees. For the rest of the day, several people manned the gate: Rachel Veilleux, Denise Audet, Yvon Cloutier, Louise Blanchet, and Émile Couture.

Flea market

There were five vendors who participated in the flea market. They had a vast selection of articles for sale, such as old reel lawnmowers, radios, tools, medallions, pins from towns and other groups, and a lot of articles. The vendors were located close to the entrance in front of the skate park and near the service building on each side of the roadway. The flea market, organized by Dave Sarrasin, added an interesting feature to the machine show.

Activities

During the day, there were several activities to interest the crowds. Dominique Perron and his grandson Félix Couture operated a gas engine, which ran a water pump. The water was pumped to a height from which it operated a hydraulic ram. This apparatus intrigued many visitors. Dominique had prepared explanatory posters of the operation of a hydraulic ram.

From time to time there were tractors in circulation. Francis Fecteau drove a Farmall F-12 and Yvon Cloutier a Massey Harris 102. In the afternoon, Yvon organized a tractor parade and they visited the Compton campground.

Sylviane Jobin and Dave Lord each operated a spinning wheel and made yarn from dog hair. Dave also operated his sock knitting machines. Kathy Chapdelaine displayed scarves, mittens, and other articles knitted from this yarn. Sylviane's partner, John Barrette, sawed wood with his circular saw run by a gas engine.

The Héberts started a chainsaw from time to time and Normand sawed boards with his mill, in effect a chainsaw on rails. He could even saw boards one cm thick.

Madame Legault and Ginette Leblanc pleased a lot of people with their homemade ice cream made on the spot.

Claude Boucher operated an engine, which ran a water pump in an interesting arrangement.

Each time one of the big engines started, a crowd would gather. Periodically Bruce Rumsby started his 50 HP Bessemer, which made loud poof-poofs and shook his truck. The Bessemer was used to operate oil pumps in Pennsylvania and ran on the blowoff gas. When the Bessemer wasn't running, Hervey Lagrandeur started the Club's 40 HP National. This engine also made loud poof-poofs. The National once was the power source for a grist mill in Saint Pascal.

And there were numerous other running engines.

Music

One patiently awaited event at Expo is always the music. Again this year, Elmer Andrews organized this event. From 1330h until 1545h, the group - The Late Bloomers - gave pleasure to the spectators. This group is composed of: Elmer Andrews, Sheila Andrews, Wyatt Savage, Russell Nutbrown, and Eileen Drew. Georgina Charland also accompanied this group on her violin.

Auction

At about 1615h, there was an auction in the big tent organized by Gary Dunsmore. The auctioneer was Scott Graham. He sold a variety of articles: clothing (hats and shirts), tractor chains, books, magazines, a trunk, a nail gun, a drill press, and a lot of other articles. The auction lasted about an hour and amused the spectators.

The BBQ

Bob Sarrasin arrived at about 1100h with his BBQ apparatus and the meat, which he had purchased in advance in calculating about three-quarters of a pound per person. After dinner, Keith Macdonald joined Bob to give him a hand. Bob cooked the beef and pork roasts over a wood fire all afternoon, marinating them with a sauce from time to time. He also baked the Idaho Baker potatoes in his BBQ machine. On Tuesday morning, Gordon had ordered a 50-pound box of these potatoes from the Boni-Choix store in Compton. They arrived Wednesday morning.

After the auction, Lisianne Lapierre, Luc Grenier, Yvon Cloutier, Dave Lord, and Gordon Barnett installed the equipment and placed the food for the supper: coleslaw, gravy, butter pats, pickles, vegetables (carrots, cauliflower, cucumbers), packages of salt and pepper, forks, knives, and spoons, cups, cans of pop, buns, coffee, and hot water for tea. Bob and Keith transferred the roasts to the serving table and Bob carved the meat. He and Keith served the meat, Lisianne served the gravy, and Luc and Gordon ensured the availability of the rest. After the main course, as dessert the participants had the choice of carrot, white, or chocolate cake. Lisianne and Gordon served the cake. Dave collected the meal tickets.

The participants found the meal to be very good. In fact 97 people participated.

Lisianne had planned the needs for the meal long in advance. She and Luc watched the advertisements and purchased any needs on sale when at all possible. Except for the meat, Lisianne and Luc prepared the rest of the meal, the coleslaw, and everything else. The success of the meal depended on them and Bob. Gordon thanked Lisianne, Luc, Bob, Keith, all those who worked to put the infrastructure in place, those who welcomed the visitors and collected the admission fees, and the exhibitors.

SUNDAY AUGUST 17

Sunday was cloudy until mid-afternoon with some sunny periods. At about 1500h, it became sunny. Not a single raindrop fell, although there were reports of showers in the surrounding areas.

The gate

Several people welcomed the visitors and collected the admission fee. They were: Carmen Perron, Esther Barnett, and Gordon Barnett until noon replaced by Denise Audet, Rachel Veilleux, Émile Couture, Carmen Turgeon, and Delmar Fisher.

Gordon Barnett looked after numerous small problems, such as the transfer of money, lack of change, no paper in the toilets, parking, and others. Dave Lord looked after product sales (hats, memberships, badges).

Antique car exposition

The Compton Antique Car Club (Sylvain Veilleux, Danielle Robinet, and Michel Jodoin) organized the antique car exposition at the same time as Expo, but only on Sunday. The exhibitors brought some forty cars, mainly from the fifties and sixties. Around 1530h, there was a car parade to the center of town. The antique cars complimented the antique machinery very well.

Activities

The vendors continued sales all day. Their merchandise attracted numerous visitors.

Canteen

Gaston and Mme. Brousseau continued to furnish canteen services to people on the site.

Music

There was fine music again on Sunday afternoon. The group known as The Castaways was composed of: Robert Woolerton, Anne Crawford, Alice Cameron, and Chilston Lowry. They were accompanied by Georgina Charland on the violin. "The Castaways" gave a lot of people pleasure.

Trophies and plaques

The Chagnon Trophy for best exhibitor was donated by Raymond Chagnon, former owner of the Case-IH dealership in Coaticook. The Couture Trophy was given by the Émile Couture family for Best Restoration. The Kerr Trophy was donated by friends of Bill Kerr in his memory for Best Engine and Machine Combination. The six plaques have always been made and donated by Nil Veilleux.

Cleanup

The collection of admission fees stopped at about 1515h because some of the exhibitors were beginning to load their equipment and leave the site. At about four o'clock, most of the exhibitors started to dismantle their displays and load their articles in their trucks or on their trailers.

The chairs and tables were loaded on Yvon Cloutier's trailer, and he, Dominique Perron and two others returned them to the Waterville church. Gordon Barnett, Chantal Lambert, and Jean-Paul Gendron rolled up the white ribbons. The two tents were then dismantled and the site cleaned by several people: Yvon Cloutier, Dominique Perron, Nicolas Veilleux, Delmar Fisher, Wells Coates, Gordon Barnett, Luc Grenier, Hervey Lagrandeur, Denise Audet, Dave Lord, Kathy Chapdelaine, John Barrette, Sylviane Jobin, Émile Couture, Bruno Veilleux, and probably others.

At about 1800h there was little left on the site. Bertrand Paré drove Michel Dion's Case 8910 and returned the National engine to Nil Veilleux's escorted by Luc Grenier and Gordon Barnett. They returned the barrels with the presenters to Nil's barn for storage. At 1830h, only the toilets were left on the site.

MONDAY AUGUST 18

At about 830h, Yvon Cloutier, Dominique Perron, and Gordon Barnett went to the Parc to terminate the work. They gathered the garbage, put the pop cans in the recycle bin, and some of the compostables into the compost bin. Yvon and Dominique returned the municipal tent and the barricades to the garage. Then, Yvon Cloutier and Gordon Barnett returned the Club tent to Yvon's barn near Burrough's Falls. Finally, they took the signs down in front of the restaurant and on the roads leading to Compton. Everything was completed by 1100h. M.

Brousseau came during the day to dismantle his tent and LTCA also came to pick up their toilets.

Conclusion

So, Expo 2008 was a success with about fifty exhibitors and 800 visitors. The antique car exposition complimented the machine show very well and the two clubs worked well together. The weather was a key factor, the weekend being the first without rain all summer.
